She graduated from the Hume, Mo., High School and graduated from Kansas State Teachers College, now Pittsburg State University. After taking post-graduate work at the National University of Mexico in Mexico City in 1948, she received her master's degree in 1949 from PSU.

She taught school in Cherokee and later, for a short time, taught in the Art Department at the university. For two years, she worked at the County Courthouse in Girard. In 1933 she moved to Pittsburg, becoming associated with her husband in the broadcasting business. She was Chairman of the Board of both KOAM Radio and KOAM TV at the time of their sale in 1980 and 1984, respectively.

Mrs. Baxter was a member of the First United Methodist Church since 1930, a member of Lamba Phi Delta Sorority, American Association of University Women, the Precepter Laureate Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and a former member and past president of the Friday Study Club.

Survivors include one nephew, John Kenneth Lyle of Kansas City, Mo.; two great-nephews and one great-niece. She was preceded in death, in addition to her husband, by two sisters, Mary Louise Connet and Bessie Ada Carlton.

Mrs. Baxter has willed her body to the University of Kansas Medical Center for medical research.

Memorial services will be 10 a.m. Monday in the Brenner Chapel.
