EUREKA, Calif. – Memorial services for Dr. Ellsworth R. Briggs were Sept. 13 in Eureka.

He died Sept. 3, 1986, in Eureka, Calif.

For 22 years, he lived in Eureka and organized the College of the Redwoods. The author of the college's curriculum, Dr. Briggs later served as vice president of instruction until he retired in 1975.

Dr. Briggs, born Nov. 15, 1909, in Pittsburg to P.O. and Elizabeth Reese Briggs, graduated from Pittsburg High School. He later earned a master's degree from Kansas State Teacher's College, now Pittsburg State University. He earned a doctorate from the University of Texas-Austin.

In Kansas, he taught at high schools in Osawatomie and Pittsburg.

In 1944, he taught at Coffeyville High School and later directed the social science department at Coffeyville Junior College. From 1954-56, he served as dean of Pratt Junior College and then as dean of Hutchison Junior College.

He was a member of Eureka First Methodist Church and taught an adult Sunday school class for 20 years.

He married Donna Burr Nov. 33 [sic] 1933, in Pittsburg. She survives at the home.

Other survivors include one son, Gordon Briggs of Eureka; and three grandchildren.
EUREKA, Calif. — Memorial services for Dr. Ellsworth R. Briggs were Sept. 13 in Eureka.

He died Sept. 3, 1986, in Eureka, Calif.

For 22 years, he lived in Eureka and organized the College of the Redwoods. The author of the college's curriculum, Dr. Briggs later served as vice president of instruction until he retired in 1975.

Dr. Briggs, born Nov. 15, 1909, in Pittsburg to P.O. and Elizabeth Reese Briggs, graduated from Pittsburg High School. He later earned a master's degree from Kansas State Teacher's College, now Pittsburg State University. He earned a doctorate from the University of Texas-Austin.

In Kansas, he taught at high schools in Osawatomie and Pittsburg.

In 1944, he taught at Coffeyville High School and later directed the social science department at Coffeyville Junior College. From 1954-56, he served as dean of Pratt Junior College and then as dean of Hutchison Junior College.

He was a member of Eureka First Methodist Church and taught an adult Sunday school class for 20 years.

He married Donna Burr Nov. 33, 1933, in Pittsburg. She survives at the home.

Other survivors include one son, Gordon Briggs of Eureka; and three grandchildren.