Cary Clasz

Cary Clasz, 73, of Pittsburg, died at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 11, 2005, at her home.

She was born March 20, 1932 to Edward and Lucile (Colbert) Clasz. She attended Stephens College, at Columbia, Mo. Clasz received her bachelor's degree from Carnegie Tech., in Pittsburgh, Pa. She was awarded masters of fine arts from Yale. In 1964, she received her Doctorate in Dramatic Criticism and Directing from Stanford University.

Clasz taught at Wellesley College, and the University of Idaho, at Moscow. In 1965 she began her teaching career at Pittsburg State University. She retired in 1995. During her career, she directed 80 major plays, during her time at Stephens, Carnegie Tech., Yale, Stanford, and Pittsburg State.

She was a member of many theatrical and university organizations. Clasz was active in community theaters and their many programs.

Survivors include a friend, Bettie Duncan, who provided for her.

According to her wishes, Clasz has been cremated. No services are planned at this time. Arrangements are under the direction of the Brenner Mortuary, 114 E. Fourth Street, Pittsburg.

©Copyright 2005 The Morning Sun
http://morningsun.net/stories/051305/obi_2005051305.shtml
Cary Clasz, 73, of Pittsburg, died at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 11, 2005, at her home.

She was born March 20, 1932 to Edward and Lucile (Colbert) Clasz. She attended Stephens College, at Columbia, Mo. Clasz received her bachelor's degree from Carnegie Tech., in Pittsburgh, Pa. She was awarded masters of fine arts from Yale. In 1964, she received her Doctorate in Dramatic Criticism and Directing from Stanford University.

Clasz taught at Wellesley College, and the University of Idaho, at Moscow. In 1965 she began her teaching career at Pittsburg State University. She retired in 1995. During her career, she directed 80 major plays, during her time at Stephens, Carnegie Tech., Yale, Stanford, and Pittsburg State.

She was a member of many theatrical and university organizations. Clasz was active in community theaters and their many programs.

Survivors include a friend, Bettie Duncan, who provided for her.

According to her wishes, Clasz has been cremated. No services are planned at this time. Arrangements are under the direction of the Brenner Mortuary, 114 E. Fourth Street, Pittsburg.